

EISENHOWER ASKS FUND TO BUILD SCHOOLS

White House Denies Requesting Convention Suite

PROGRESS AT JUNIOR HIGH BUILDING—Rebuilding of the Harrisburg Junior High school old building, destroyed by fire January 1, 1955, is progressing at a favorable rate, especially in view of the current shortage in steel and the late summer shortage in cement.

The above picture was taken from the southeast corner of the building, looking toward the northwest. In the immediate foreground is the girls' physical education room. It is built over a part of what was the old gymnasium, and will be one story only.

The higher structure to the right marks the stage of the auditorium, which will face east in the new building instead of south as in the old one. The auditorium, also, will be only one story, and will cover the remainder of what was the old gymnasium, and will cover also a portion of the furnace room.

The auditorium will be on the first floor—the same level as offices and class rooms. Class rooms will be built on the second floor, as before, utilizing the walls which are shown to the left of the picture, but the top of the wall will be removed to harmonize the structure with the new building.

Republicans Blast Remarks By Senator Kerr

Hagerty Says No Request Made for Suite in Hospital

WASHINGTON — The White House said today it made "absolutely no" request that a San Francisco military hospital prepare a suite for President Eisenhower's possible use during the Republican convention in August.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty angrily denied a statement to that effect Wednesday by Sen. Robert S. Kerr (D-Okla.).

Kerr had said that Republicans are "so alarmed about their own low political reserve they plan to bring like to the GOP convention, even if he has to stay in Letterman General Hospital which reportedly is preparing a suite for him."

Reporters asked Hagerty if there had been any White House request for a suite.

"Absolutely none at all," Hagerty replied emphatically. "There never has been, and that information has been relayed to the commanding general of the hospital."

Charge "Unmolested Lie"

Asked if the President has seen Kerr's remarks, Hagerty said, "Not unless he read it in the papers."

Hagerty said that would be one thing "I would not even call to his attention."

Hagerty was asked if he had any comment on Kerr's statement.

"It isn't even worth the dignity of a 'no comment,'" he said.

Republicans countered Kerr's remarks about the President's health with such words as "unmolested lie," "despicable" and "smear politics."

Kerr was an unsuccessful candidate for the 1952 Democratic presidential nomination.

He noted in a letter to his constituents that Letterman General Hospital is preparing a suite for Mr. Eisenhower's possible use during the convention. He told Republicans not to put "too great a burden" on the President's "physical reserve."

House Republican Whip Leslie C. Arends of Illinois said Kerr "is another new low in smear politics."

Sen. George H. Bender (R-Ohio) denounced Kerr's statement as "the crudest, the foulest, and the most despicable attack I have ever had the misfortune to hear."

He said Kerr's "utter lack of even common decency is beyond belief."

Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall said "shame on Senator Kerr." He called on "responsible" Democratic leaders to "repudiate this reprehensible attack on our President."

Hall also denounced as "an unmitigated lie" any reports that Letterman has received any request from the GOP for a room for the President.

Letterman officials admitted Wednesday night they were preparing a suite for the President in case he attends the GOP convention but said they were doing so as a "routine" precaution.

Mrs. Archie Bennett of Eldorado Route 2 was taken to a hospital here for treatment of injuries following a motor vehicle collision at Poplar and Webster streets.

Chief of Police Ross Lane reported that autos driven by Mr. Bennett and Otto Potts of Harrisburg collided at the intersection when Potts pulled off Webster onto Poplar.

Benson Urges Congress to Act On Soil Bank Plan to Start Program This Year

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson said today the administration's proposed "soil bank" program can be put into effect this year if Congress acts quickly.

A month or two of "avoidable delay," he told the Senate Agriculture Committee "might cause us a year's time in getting the program launched."

The soil bank plan is the key feature of the administration's farm program which President Eisenhower sent to Congress Monday. It would provide for overall payments, both in cash and kind, totaling about one billion dollars annually to farmers. In return, participating farmers would agree to cut corn, wheat, cotton, rice and other plantings by 40 to 45 million acres.

Benson cautioned that the inducement offered to farmers to participate in the soil bank plan would have to be generous. Before farmers would comply, he said, they would have to feel that their net incomes would be at least as high as if they planted their allotted acres.

Three Causes of Problem

He also said broad participation would be necessary to insure the program's success.

Benson said the soil bank plan—with its twin features of an acreage reserve and a conservation reserve—would accomplish many things. He said it would increase farm income, reduce surplus stocks, cut excess production, reduce storage costs, ease apprehension among America's friends abroad, conserve soil, water and timber resources, and strike a better balance of production and market.

Seeks $1.2 Billion Federal Grants Next Five Years

Request is Chief Feature of Four-Point Program

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — President Eisenhower asked Congress today to provide $1.250,000,000 in federal grants during the next five years to help build badly needed school rooms.

He said in a special message to Congress that the grants at the rate of 250 million dollars a year should be matched with state funds to supplement local construction in the "neediest" school districts.

The request was the chief feature of a four-point federal aid program which Mr. Eisenhower said "should overcome the nation's critical classroom shortage within five years."

The shortage now is estimated at 203,000 classrooms.

The total program proposed by Mr. Eisenhower would amount to at least $2,020,000,000 in federal aid to public schools over five years.

Would Penalize Laggards

For the federal grants, Mr. Eisenhower proposed a formula under which states "noticeably lagging" behind their ability to support public schools would get less federal aid. He said this feature "should act as an incentive for the lagging states to increase their effort."

He proposed that federal funds be distributed "according to relative need."

Mr. Eisenhower also called for: 1. $750,000,000 over five years for federal purchase of local school construction bonds when school districts cannot sell them in private markets at reasonable interest rates.

2. Federal advances to help provide reserves for bonds issued by state school financing agencies. The President put no price tag on this feature of the five-year program. He said these bonds would finance local construction of schools to be rented and eventually owned by local school systems.

3. $20,000,000 in matching grants to the states over five years for planning ways to overcome obstacles to financing school construction.

Asks More for Research

The President also asked for a "major" but unspecified increase in funds for the Office of Educational Research. He said "this has been a sorely neglected field."

He also asked Congress to continue providing federal funds for school construction in districts near federal bases and other government installations where school enrollments have increased sharply.

St. Louis, Bone Dry for 41 Straight Days, Tingles with Static Electricity

ST. LOUIS — Bone-dry St. Louis, in its 41st straight day without rain, tingled with static electricity today.

There was so much electricity that baggy sweaters became form-fitting and kisses were shocking, particularly to owners of new rugs.

The electricity stored up in the body when feet brush across thick-napped carpets was discharged when the person touched a metal object or even another person.

The dry period, three days longer than any recorded since the Weather Bureau started keeping tab back in the 1870s, was fine for building contractors but not so good for those wanting to disk a farm plot.

Soil Blows Away

The drought has dried the ground to a point where it is possible to pour concrete in temperatures that would normally prevent it. There is little or no frost because there is not sufficient moisture in the ground to create it.

But the dryness is making it tough for farmers who usually would be using the disk on their acres at this time of year. Those who tried it reported that the winds were carrying away the dusty, disturbed topsoil.

At least one salesman was cashing in on the prevalence of static electricity by offering a spray guaranteed to "take the shock out of home life" by removing the voltage from rugs and automobile seat cushions.

"I've had good luck in offices, too," he said. "An oil company officer bought a good-sized order after the stenographers took to wearing gloves or putting Scotch tape on their fingers."

"Before they did this, they were getting constant shocks when they discharged the electricity they picked up on the rugs or the keys."

Marty Marion, manager of the Chicago White Sox and father of four young girls, found his own solution to electrified goodbye kisses when the kids set out for school.

"My wife and I touch them on the shoulders first," he said. "It uncharges 'em."

Static electricity was causing trouble at the department store sweater counters, where clerks and customers shared the jolts.

It was also difficult to fit the garments because they were so magnetized they hugged the curves regardless of size.

Legion, VFW to Hold 'Pitch for Polio' Saturday

Harrisburg's two veteran organizations—the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars—will hold a "Pitch for Polio" Saturday, Jan. 14.

The two groups annually stage a "pitch" with members of the Legion and VFW spending the entire day at tubs to receive coins for the March of Dimes. Motorists are invited to pitch their money into the tubs as they drive by.

There will be a tub on the square at the intersection of Poplar and Main streets and another on the highway at the Rt. 13-Rt. 45 intersection.

A similar program will be staged in Eldorado by the American Legion members of that city, it has been announced. In Eldorado the tub will be at the "five corners intersection" in the business district.

Court Denies Wright Motion

SPRINGFIELD — The Illinois Supreme Court today denied State Treasurer Warren E. Wright's motion to dismiss a petition for an order for quick delivery of toll road bonds.

The Supreme Court denied both Wright's plea to dismiss the Toll Road Commission's petition, and to permit a taxpayer who brought a lower court suit to enter into the case before the high court.

The court also turned down Wright's plea for 10 days to file arguments against the commission's petition. But it did give the state treasurer two more days to file such briefs. Previously, the court had ordered Wright to file his answer by Saturday.

Ford Success Story

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT
The name Ford had been a part of the American industrial scene for half a century, so it can hardly be rated a surprise to learn, officially, that it is among the five leading corporations in this country.

The nation's largest family-held company, whose financial history has been a tightly kept secret during the firm's whole life, is now revealed to be a giant outdone in assets only by American Telephone and Telegraph, Standard Oil
of New Jersey, General Motors
and United States Steel. In terms of sales volume, it ranks fourth.

But what is most fascinating to ordinary citizens about Ford's financial disclosures is the story they tell of how a great company
grows, suffers its ups and downs, takes a new lease on life and grows spectacularly again.

In the days of the "tin lizzie," Henry Ford was almost alone as a mass producer of cheap cars. He carried off one major change of size and style successfully, but in the 1930's ran into competitive and other troubles. The record shows Ford had a "cumulative loss" for the 1931-1941 decade, through the Great Depression and up to our entry into World War II.

The first year after the war
Ford lost a bit more than eight million dollars. But by 1948, riding on what we all thought then was a colossal boom, its sales had bounced up from 894 million to 1.9 billion, and profits were 96 million.

The truly astounding fact about this report is that this 2.5-billion-dollar corporation has now DOUB-LED its sales since 1948 and this year may well show a profit of 400 million or more (312 million for nine months).

We all know the country and its general economy have expanded tremendously in this period. But some companies keep pace and some do not.

How did Ford manage it? In the postwar years up to now, it has spent 1.3 million dollars mod-ernizing, expanding and replacing its production facilities to make this growth possible. It has improved its manufacturing processes, plant and other organization methods.

These outlays have not only spelled larger earnings for the stockholders and more cars for the consumers. They have created thousands of additional jobs
at good pay.

This kind of performance is the answer to those in the labor movement who think that any particular company has a pie just so big,
and it is labor's job to get a bigger and bigger slice of it. The truth is that the enterprising company, for the good of the worker and everybody else, must constantly be devising ways to make bigger and bigger pies.

The Ford story, told fully for the first time, ought to hearten
all those who want to see the private enterprise system flourish and prosper in a world where too much sill already is in the iron grip of hostile systems that would freeze and finally wither the free purposes of men.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
White And Negro Congressmen Plan Civil Rights Battle
In Congress; They Will Drop Hot FEPC Proposal; Aim For Broad Right-To-Vote Bill Acceptable To Both Political Parties.

WASHINGTON.—The first backstage meeting on the most dynamite-laden question before this Congress was held in the office of Congressman Hugh Scott of Philadelphia last week to discuss the protection of Negroes in the deep south and civil rights generally.

At the meeting were Congressmen Jimmy Roosevelt of Los Angeles, Dick Bolling of Kansas City,
Adam Clayton Powell of Harlem,
N. Y., and Charles Diggs of Detroit. The latter two are among the three Negroes in Congress, all Democrats. Though the meeting was held in Congressman Scott's office, he was the only Republican present. Another meeting which two other Republicans want to attend, Wolverton of Camden, N. J., and Hesselton of western Massachusetts, is scheduled for today.

Chief strategy decided on was to abandon any attempt to pass an FEPC — Fair Employment Practices Act — but concentrate everything on an omnibus bill guaranteeing the Negroes' right to vote and his physical protection. This bill would be in two parts:

1. Protection of voting rights by abolishing the poll tax, preventing terrorism at the polls, giving the Justice Department broad powers to probe any attempt to deprive Negroes of voting rights in either federal or local elections.
2. A general anti-lynching bill which would also apply to drowning, or any other type of violence
based on race, creed, or color, regardless of state lines.

GEORGIA CONGRESSMAN ATTACK

The meeting in Congressman
Scott's office took place immediately after a group of Georgia congressmen, including L. A. Han-derson and Forrester, had spent an hour on the House floor exor-cising "niggers." The Congressional Record was cleaned up afterward and some of their most vicious language censored.

But at the meeting of the two Negro and three white congressmen which followed minutes later in Scott's office, Jimmy Roosevelt expressed concern that these speeches would make headlines
the next day, thereby hurting a bipartisan approach to civil rights.
"No American papers will carry that kind of stuff," argued Congressman Powell of Harlem.
"They'll ignore it."

Congressman Diggs, first Negro ever elected from Detroit, brought with him an 18-page legal memo proposing that the congressmen from Mississippi—scene of the Till murder—be unseated on the ground that they were not elected by all the voters of Mississippi.
The memo was prepared by Frank Polhaus, whom Truman

and showing that a move to unseat a congressman does not have to be made at the opening of Congress. At a previous meeting, Diggs had been vigorous in wanting to try to unseat the Mississippi congressmen, but both Roosevelt and Bolling have urged against this.

"It would only arouse passion and get our southern friends
sore," cautioned Roosevelt.

Diggs agreed and for the time being will not introduce his anti-Mississippi resolution.

WHITE HOUSE STAND

The backstage meeting agreed that by dropping the hot FEPC
bill and emphasizing the Negro's right to vote and physical protection, they could get a bill acceptable to both political parties.
Congressman Powell pointed out that although Eisenhower last year had called his anti-segregation amendment to the school bill "extraneous and erroneous," GOP Leaders Joe Martin and Charlie Halleck were now behind his amendment.

"I took a sideswipe at Eisenhower on his state of the union message for recommending a congressional investigation into civil rights," Powell told his colleagues.
"He was just passing the buck."

"Ike went a lot further than anyone else," shot back Hugh Scott.
Later Max Rabb of the White House staff phoned Powell to say that he was "disappointed in your attitude."

"It took a great deal of effort
by me to get that provision for a congressional investigation in the state of the union message," Rabb said. Rabb has charge of minority problems for the White House.

NEXT MOVES

The backstage meeting in Scott's office decided on the following immediate strategy:

1. Congressman Scott was to find out from Max Rabb at the White House how far Eisenhower was willing to go to help a civil-rights bill. Scott was also to contact William Rogers, deputy attorney general, to see what reports
the Justice Department had on the Till murder case and what legislation it had in mind to prevent its repetition.

2. Congressman Roosevelt was to talk to Congressman Mann Celler (Dem., N. Y.) of the Judiciary committee to see how far he would go in pushing a civil-rights bill.
3. Congressman Bolling of Kansas City was to talk to Speaker
Sam Rayburn and Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas to get their cooperation.

"There's no use talking to the Senate Judiciary committee," remarked Bolling. "It's what Lyndon Johnson wants to do that counts."

Another move is to demand that Congressman Percy Priest of Tennessee carry out his pledge to report out the anti-Jim Crow bill of Congressman Hesselton (Rep.
Mass.). Priest, Democrat, is chairman of the House Interstate Commerce committee.

"One year ago Percy promised that the Hesselton bill would be the first order of business at the next session," said Powell. "One year has now passed and he still hasn't carried out that promise."

U. S. Has Annual Cleaning Bill of $19 Billion

CHICAGO (U)—Americans spent 10 per cent more last year than 1954 for cleaning up dirt and litter in their homes and places of business, the National Sanitary Supply Association said.

The association estimated Americans paid $19,000,000,000 for the work force to help keep us clean last year and $1,000,000,000 for materials.

As a country, we spend more money than any other people in the world for cleanliness, but it pays off, according to Leo J. Kelly, executive vice president of the association.

Kelly said that as a result of keeping clean, along with a better standard of living, widespread immunization, better medical care and the expansion of local health services, the death rate from all infectious diseases in America dropped from 676 per 100,000 persons to 79 in the past 50 years.

Enjoy Advancing Age, Surgeon Says

CHICAGO (U)—Be your age and enjoy it, an industrial health expert advises men worried about the onslaught of time.

Dr. W. H. Rice, chief surgeon of Armco Steel Corporation, said men should choose and plan enjoyable recreations so that they become less active with advancing years.
"Be, and enjoy being, your age,"
he said.

Dr. Rice suggested that overexerting be avoided. And he said adequate rest periods should be taken as one grows older.
"Twenty to 30 minutes of complete relaxation, lying down, during the noon hour is one of the most valuable things which can be done to prepare you for the afternoon tasks," he said.

Whenever possible, Dr. Rice said, meetings should not extend past mealtimes because eating regularly is very important.

Use alcohol or tobacco only in moderation, he said, and not at all if you are suffering from certain diseases.

Stratton, GOP Leaders Seek Big Vote for Ike

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Gov. William Stratton called Illinoisans today to tell President Eisenhower they hope he will run again by voting for him in the state's presidential preference primary.

The April 10 Republican primary is strictly a popularity contest and is not binding on the 60 delegates which the state will send to the GOP's presidential nominating convention at San Francisco.

But Stratton and other GOP leaders indicated they hoped a heavy vote will make Illinois a first major state to be committed, even though unofficially, to back the President's nomination.

In announcing Wednesday that he was putting Mr. Eisenhower's name on the ballot, Stratton said, "This is our way of saying 'Mr. President, we hope you will run again.'"

Placing the President in the primary "expresses not only my own sentiments but those of the majority of people in this state," Stratton said.

"We're for him and behind him," Stratton said, "his action was taken wholly on his own responsibility. It is not designed to put pressure on the President to run again or to keep GOP hopefuls out of the Illinois primary, he said.

However, as an assurance that Mr. Eisenhower will seek a second term, and it was regarded as unlikely that any Republican would risk trying to run against the potential Eisenhower name.

Stratton plans to file the more than 3,000 signatures required by law personally between Monday and Jan. 22.

A candidate's consent is not required for a position on the ballot, however, it is customary to withdraw the name if its owner objects.

In 1952, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's name was placed on file as a primary candidate, but was removed at his request.

No Approval or Disapproval by Ike Of Stratton Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has neither approved or disapproved of plans to enter his name in the Illinois Republican presidential primary April 10.

Gov. William C. Stratton of Illinois announced Wednesday he will enter the President in the primary.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty quickly announced Mr. Eisenhower withheld both approval and disapproval from Stratton's plan.

Also, Hagerty said the lack of either "assent or dissent" did not mean Mr. Eisenhower had reached an "ultimate decision" on whether to run for a second term.

Mrs. C. L. Belford Dies at Marion

Mrs. Alice Belford, 88, wife of Charles L. Belford, 706, died Wednesday morning at 7:30 at the Marion Memorial hospital.

Death followed a hip fracture suffered in a fall at her home on Dec. 27. Mrs. Belford is a native of the Edgemoor community of Peoria county.

She is survived by her husband and three sons: H. O. Belford, who is a teacher in the Marion public schools; Don L. Belford, Dayton, Tenn.; and James Belford of Mt. Vernon.

The funeral will be Friday at 3 p. m. at the Mitchell funeral home where the body lies in state. Rev. Leo Brown, pastor of the Marion First Baptist church where she was an active member, will officiate and burial will be in the Marion Old Folks cemetery.

Furniture with 'Modern Touch' Favored Most by Buyers at Market

CHICAGO (AP) — Buyers at the International Home Furnishings Winter Market looked today for "that modern touch."

A spot check among thousands of buyers shopping among thousands of wholesale exhibits showed that items have to have that almost mystic quality called modern.

There appeared to be no agreement as to what "modern" is. But buyers appeared to be in agreement that it's the style American home-makers want most.

Some of the "modern" touches in the displays came from the old world. Italian provincial styles were finding favor and Scandinavian influences brought out striking uses of wood.

One manufacturer dipped into Oriental sources to give a "modern" touch to a line of furniture designed to fit either contemporary or traditional settings.

There were modern appeals in copper-toned outdoor "jet age" plastic fabrics. New plastic upholstery coverings gave a streamlined appearance to living room pieces and metallic fabrics added sparkle.

Washing machines turned up in pink and refrigerators in gold.

Child Often Can Tell You His Trouble

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Is that child of yours causing you concern by the way he's been acting lately?

"Ask him what's wrong," Dorothy Pisula, a St. Louis, Mo., psychologist recommends. "He is a more able diagnostician than most of us and cuts through to the heart of things."

Phenomenal Shooting Big Defense Problem of Big Ten Teams: Combes

CHICAGO (U) — Basketball's terrific shooters make defense a problem for everybody, Illinois Coach Harry Combes said today, and the only cure is for the "defender to jump simultaneously as the shooter, and just as high."

"Defense is one of our big problems," Combes said, even though his Illini five leads the Big Ten with two victories in as many games, the only team unbeaten in conference play.

"We spend as much time on defense as offense, but some shots, like Ohio State's Robin Freeman, are unstoppable," he said. "That's everybody's big problem these days. There's no way to defense some of these guys. If they can get their shots, they can make them."

"Everybody's in the same boat. The shooting is just phenomenal. These kids with a jump shot. If the defender jumps simultaneously and just as high, he might get his hands on the ball. But some kids, like Freeman, have a fade away when they shoot the thing, and you can't defend."

Combes said he couldn't remember when the Big Ten race had so many teams beaten so early in the season. Seven clubs each have lost one game and Combes rated most of them as threats to his early front-runners.

"Two games don't make a season," he said, "and Ohio State and Iowa are tough teams. So is Michigan State. And Michigan and Purdue are stronger than a lot of people thought they'd be."

"This conference is going to be a rat race. And a team that wins 11 and loses 3 could win it, the same as last year. We're playing a little better right now than we did three weeks ago, but you can't keep a team up for every game, because of the human element, and in this league you can't let down."

Combes' team has lost only once in nine starts, to Missouri in the second game, but until Monday night, Ohio State, Indiana and Purdue also had been beaten only once.

"We won't claim any championship yet," Combes said.

Robin Freeman Holds Lead in Big 10 Scoring

CHICAGO (U) — Ohio State's Robin Freeman threatened today to make a run-away of the Big Ten individual scoring chase after only two games.

The 5-foot 11-inch guard has averaged 32.5 points per game against two conference foes compared to a 25-point average for runner-up Jerome Danner of Minnesota and 24 for Dick Mast of Northwestern, each also in two games. Illinois' Billy Ridley ranked fourth in the race with a 23-point average.

Indiana's Wally Choice was the pacemaker in accuracy with a field goal shooting percentage of .556 while Wisconsin's Dick Miller led in free throw accuracy with 24 straight without a miss for a 1.000 average.

Illinois, only team undefeated in conference play, led in team offense with an average of 84.5 points per game with Indiana second with an 80-point mark. Purdue was the top defensive club, limiting its opponents to 64.7 points per game.

The Illini also led in free throw accuracy with a .791 average while Michigan State was the leader in field goal percentage with .597.

SIU Drops 59-48 Decision to Washington U.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — A cold-shooting, but hot rebounding Southern Illinois university quintet dropped a 59-48 decision to Washington university before 2,000 fans here last night.

Excellent defenses highlighted the play of both sides as outcourt shooters had difficulty in getting off their shots and setups or drive-in shots were rare.

The win was Washington's sixth straight, giving the Bears an 8-2 season record, while the loss snapped a four-game Southern Illinois university winning streak.

Rebounding was the high spot for SIU as Southern won out in rebounds, 39-32, and controlled their own board so well that Washington made only eight offensive rebounds during the entire game. Spearheading Southern's rebounding was big Gus Doss, 6-6 center from East St. Louis, who grabbed 19-high for Southern this season.

Washington's 6-5 center Jim Paul was so bottled up that he collected only four points before fouling out late in the game. Southern, however, couldn't hold down Washington's leading scorer, Jim Barton, 6-3 forward, who scored 17 points, and Bud Cristall, 6-1 guard, who paced both teams with 22.

SIU hit a cold 26 per cent from the field (15 of 57), while Washington hit 35 per cent (18 of 52). Washington sank 23 of 29 free throw attempts.

Washington's scoring was bunched between five players while nine SIU players hit for points. Warren Talley, Pinckneyville, led the team with 11 markers, while Doss had 9 and Gordon Lambert, Marion, 8.

The game was so wrapped up in defensive play that the score was only 12-10 (Washington's favor) after 11 minutes of play. Washington edged ahead to lead, 30-19, at the half.

Scoring was even in the second half despite the fact that it took the Salukis nearly 11 minutes before they could connect for a field goal. Midway in the half Washington had a commanding, 41-28 advantage, but SIU came back with eight straight points to cut the lead to five points.

With four minutes left, Lambert sank a tip in on a rebound to narrow the Bears' lead to a scant three points, 45-42, but that was as close as SIU got.

Three successive free throws by Doss pushed the Salukis to within five points (50-45) with slightly over two minutes left, but foul shots and two lay ups provided Washington with the win.

Southern, 2-0 in conference play, meets Northern Illinois in a loop game at Carbondale Saturday night.

Arthur Trout, Former Centralia Cage Coach, Dies

BRUCEVILLE, Ind. (U) — The man who coached Centralia, Ill., high school basketball teams for 37 years died in Indiana Wednesday.

He was Arthur Trout, who once was acclaimed "dean of southern Illinois coaches." Trout died at the home of a daughter in Bruceville, 11 miles northeast of Vincennes.

Trout, who was in his 60s, retired in 1950 after being stricken with a paralysis during a basketball game at Centralia. He spent his entire coaching career at the southern Illinois school and three of the four teams he took to the state basketball tournament won championships.

Funeral services for Trout will be held at Bruceville Friday.

Bull Dogs to Meet Good West Frankfort Five Here Friday Night

The Harrisburg Bull Dogs, on the next-to last rung on the South Seven conference basketball ladder, will be playing a fine team that is just one notch above the locals in the loop standings when West Frankfort comes to Harrisburg Friday night.

Frankfort's greatest claim to fame this season has been its conquest of Pinckneyville, only loss of the season for the Pins. Coach George Lubett, former Galatia mentor who coaches the Red Birds, has a well-balanced outfit with a number of veterans. Best-known is Paul Peeler, probably the best center in the conference.

There will be a couple of other South Seven games Friday night, and two on Saturday evening, when Harrisburg will be idle. Friday night will find Mt. Vernon at Benton and Marion at Centralia in loop tilts with Herrin entertaining Murphysboro in a non-conference affair. In the Southwest Egyptian loop Murphysboro boasts a good 3-1 mark.

Mt. Vernon, pushing Herrin for the South Seven lead, is favored over Benton and Centralia over Marion. Other Friday night games are Johnston City at Eldorado, Shawneetown at Equality, Rosiclare at Cave-in-Rock, Pope County at Vienna, Galatia at Ridgway, Fairfield at Salem, Zeigler at Elkville, Anna at Chester, Pinckneyville at Carbondale Community high, Trico

Lakers Defeat Celtics, 114-110

By United Press
Time was when the Minneapolis Lakers looked down on the rest of the National Basketball Assn. from the lofty eminence of first place; today they're delighted just to be out of the cellar.

The Lakers ended their long residence in last place in the Western Division Wednesday night by beating the Boston Celtics, 114-110, at St. Paul. It was Minneapolis' first win over the Celtics in five tries and put them in third place, just ahead of St. Louis.

In the only other league action Wednesday night, the Philadelphia Warriors extended their Eastern Division lead to 4½ games over second-place Boston by rallying to nip Rochester, 97-94.

The Lakers grabbed an 18-16 lead late in the first period and never fell behind Boston again. They boosted the margin to 92-77 after the third quarter and only a late Boston surge made the final score close.

At Rochester, the Warriors trailed Rochester all the way until they tied the score at 87-87 with two minutes left. Then they sank 10 free throws to a Rochester basket to seize a seven-point lead that the Royals couldn't overcome.

Announce Dates for Revenue Office To Aid Taxpayers

Dates at which the Harrisburg offices of the Internal Revenue Service will be opened to offer assistance to persons needing advice in compiling their income tax returns on 1955 earnings were announced today by H. J. White, district director at Springfield.

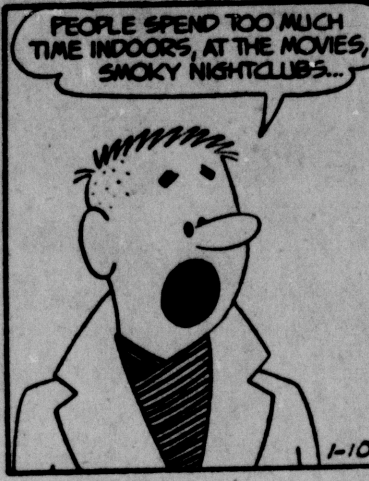

Mr. White said that offices this year will adopt "self help" methods to speed up services. Under this plan taxpayers may begin to fill out their own returns and if they reach an item on the form causing difficulty, they may seek enlightenment from the revenue employees in the office. Telephone service also will be maintained to answer questions.

The local office is on the second floor of the Rose building.

Here are the designated assistance days:

January 13, 20, 27, 30, 31; February 1, 2, 3, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 13, 14, 15, 17, 24; March 2, 9, 16, 23, 30; April 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 16.

U. of I. to Buy Carl Sandburg Library

CHICAGO (AP)—The University of Illinois will pay $30,000 for the extensive private library of Illinois-born poet-historian Carl Sandburg.

The university's directors approved the purchase Wednesday and said the library will be given a permanent home on the Illinois Campaign-Urbana campus.

Sandburg's library includes his extensive collection of material on Abraham Lincoln, the subject of a massive Sandburg biography. It also contains many of his manuscripts and first editions of most of his books.

Democratic State Committeeman May Buck Party Choice

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—John R. Asher, Democratic state central committeeman from Paris, said today he is considering bucking the party's choice for lieutenant governor to "get some farm representation on the ticket."

Asher denied he may team up with Chicago City Treasurer Morris B. Sachs who has said he will run for governor against the party's choice.

But Asher said, "I may have something to say about that later." He also denied published reports that he has been approached by Sachs supporters.

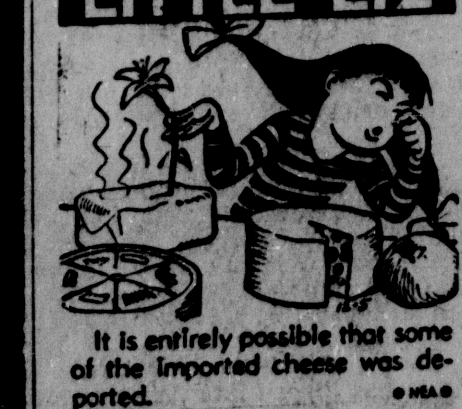

Arrest Hitch-Hiker For Theft of Suit Case from Motorist

City Policemen John Dunn and Harvey Vinyard early today jailed a hitch-hiker charged with stealing a suit case belonging to a motorist who was letting him ride.

Arrested was Hobart Hemphill of England, Ark., who was jailed about two hours after DeWitt C. Jordan of Chicago, en route home from Mississippi, told officers his suit case was stolen by a hitch-hiker while he was in the Triangle cafe getting a hamburger.

Jordan continued his trip toward Chicago and about two hours after the incident was reported police found Hemphill with the suit case near the Ellis Trucking Co. terminal here.

War Vet Cleared by Reason of Insanity Of Threatening Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—A veteran of both world wars was cleared "by reason of insanity" Wednesday of charges he threatened the life of President Eisenhower here last March 5.

Federal Judge Henry A. Schweinhart ordered Henry L. Layfield, 54, of the State Soldiers and Sailors Home at Quincy, Ill., hospitalized for further psychiatric examination.

Secret Service agents testified Layfield threatened to shoot the President at a White House gate. They said he had no gun with him. Layfield testified he was drunk and "blanked out" at the time.

Probe of Administration Grant of Mining Claims Runs Into Bickering

WASHINGTON (AP)—A congressional investigation digging into the administration's grant of 15 Oregon mining claims has struck a rich vein of political bickering.

Democrats have charged the grants are being used for "mining" timber.

Sen. W. Kerr Scott (D-NC) Wednesday recessed the hearings until Tuesday with a declaration that he would "get at the bottom" of the mining case despite "repeated cries of politics and smears." He said he will call Secretary of Interior Douglas McKay for questioning.

Rep. Clare E. Hoffman (R-Mich) accused the Democratic-controlled joint committee of "bias and cowardly tactics." He said it was conducting the inquiry "for 1956 campaign purposes."

Scott said the committee would ask McKay why his department

AF Helicopter Seeks Fate of Missionaries

QUITO, Ecuador (AP)—A U. S. Air Force helicopter whirled off into the "green hell" jungles of eastern Ecuador today to determine the fate of three American Protestant missionaries feared slain by blood-thirsty Indians.

The copter, flown in Wednesday from the Panama Canal Zone, will take off from Shell Mera, an oil camp which is the civilized outpost nearest the point where the missionaries' wrecked plane was sighted late Monday.

In New York, the National Broadcasting Co. reported that Dave Garraway of the "Today" television show talked this morning with Clarence W. Jones in Quito. Jones indicated some hope for survivors.

Searchers in an Albatross rescue amphibian sighted the bodies of two of five missing missionaries near the wreckage Wednesday. The dead were identified tentatively as T. Edward McCully, of Wauwatosa, Wis., and Roger Youdarin, of Billings, Mont.

No trace has been found of Nathaniel Saint, of Fullerton, Calif., Peter Fleming, of Seattle, and James Elliott, of Portland, Ore., who flew into Auca Indian county with McCully and Youdarin Sunday.

A report that a small fire had been sighted near the wreckage gave rise to some hope that one or more of them survived the Indian attack.

Carpentier Urges Police to Post Names Of Suspended Drivers

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier today urged Illinois police chiefs to post prominently in their stations the names of drivers who have had their licenses revoked or suspended.

Carpentier told the annual convention of the Illinois Association of Chiefs of Police that "these drivers have proved their own irresponsibility by their own actions."

He urged the posting of their names so all members of the police forces would be familiar with them and could prevent the persons from continuing to drive.

"If our drivers license law is going to be an effective instrument in the cause of traffic safety," he said, "the persons whose licenses are revoked must be kept off the road."

Wednesday the association presented the University of Illinois extension service a $1,500 check for the new police academy established at the U. of I. by the 1955 Legislature.

BY ROBERT CARSE

Naish sat there for several hours after Kauai left him. He dozed, his back against the house wall, and roused fitfully to contemplate Kauai's relationship to him.

Kauai was a first rate man and a prime sailor in his fashion. The missionaries on Mangaia had run a good schooner and Kauai had learned an immense amount of practical seamanship with them.

Kauai had shown his skill a number of times while the ship had been careened and repaired here, and he was able to lead, explain what he wanted done to other men without loss of patience.

He could make a right smart watch officer out of Kauai, and homeward-bound he'd have want of several more of his clip. Mr. Bothwick was still up to snuff; he'd turned in style once old Larned had made the move to pull the crew aboard for the evening. But just one mate wasn't anything like sufficient, and among the rest of the lads there was nobody he could pick for the task. So, take Kauai.

Up till the day the ship was ready for sea, the work would probably go along all right. All hands had joined it, and it was a lot like a barn-raising back home. The women had come out aboard, and of course the youngsters, and the able-bodied men, and they'd scraped the hull and rigged stages with Mr. Bothwick to oversee them had tended the lines and anchors, even helped to set up the rigging. He had given old Mata-ora one of the whale boats, fully equipped, and two barrels of prime oil for that, and the people were very happy.

Caleb Fimie's desertion wasn't forgotten by the crew. Often at night here on the atoll he had heard them talking about it. A couple of them no doubt had the same hankering. Right on sailing day when the time for parting actually came would be the moment. Let the women start to weep and ship, home, duty and articles could come out pretty small. Alf was the one he'd have to watch in particular.

Since the night rounding up on the Horn, Alf had held the conception that he was fully a man. He had a bit of hair on his chest now, and his voice had deepened, his muscles broadened, and his girl was wildly in love with him. It had taken Larned to pique his pride to get him aboard to work. "Done all right enough off the cape, Alf," Larned had told him. "Been passin' for sailor-man since. How about now? Same ship, and some couple o' fellers got to sail her home."

Alf was unable to refuse. He knew Larned's record, the years in the British prison hulks, the sea record in ship after ship. Alf told himself in this moment, Naish thought, that if he was a sailor he must prove it to Larned.

"I ain't the one to slack off from such," Alf said. There were possibly half a dozen of the young atoll men whom he could muster along into the crew with Kauai, Naish thought. If Alf and some of the others of the crew did desert at the last moment, it would be necessary. Yet he'd rather sail short-handed with none of the Polynesians aboard except Kauai. He feared the weather off the Horn. It would be bad enough for Kauai, and in all fact downright miserable for himself and the rest of Northern blood. He shuddered slightly, sitting in the moist warmth of the breeze, and got up and went into his house, drew on his shirt and pulled the tapa sleeping robe over him. He didn't like the idea of the Horn passage; this sun had gone a long way into his veins.

Kauai was squatting outside the door with a bowl of poi-poi when he awoke. He went out and wordlessly shared it. Kauai, he had decided, must speak first.

"You've made up your mind?" Kauai said when the food was finished.

"Not entirely," Naish said. "I'm not too certain you should go with the ship."

"Why?" Kauai sat tensely, his eyes narrowed.

"You've told me that you didn't like it on Mangaia. Well, in my country there's a lot of folks like the missionaries. And all hands wear pants."

"But I understand yours is a big country," Kauai said. "If a man doesn't like one part, he can move to another, even to where he can take off his pants. But I don't joke any more. . . . For that right now I have no feeling. Jered. This place is too small. When the sons of Mata-ora get ready, they can all but push me off it. Or I would end up working for them. I have to get out, and I'd like to go aboard your ship. Say no to me and I'll take my canoe and sail to the Western islands. Mata-ora's sons can take what little has been mine here. I speak plain?"

"You do," Naish said. He ran fingers along his brow, still a bit hesitant. "It'll be cold, Kauai. There will be plenty of hard work and danger."

Kauai smiled. "I'll go," he said. "I'm not afraid."

"Then that's it," Naish said. He clasped Kauai's hand. "Later, when the ship is in shape, you'll sign articles as second mate. Come out aboard now with me. Mr. Bothwick needs help."

They walked down to the beach side by side. But at the water's edge the canoe was launched. Kauai said, "You first, please, sir."

"Aye," Naish said with a feeling that was close to irritation. He was the master of the vessel out there, and despite fetters or any other bond or fact, he would remain so, and Kauai was his second mate and subordinate. Once more, in his innermost life, he was alone.
